

"Drains to Tualatin River"

Storm Drain Sidewalk Mural Proposal

Everett Liddle · everettliddle@gmail.com · everettliddle.com

The Design

Rectangular, 4' x 10'

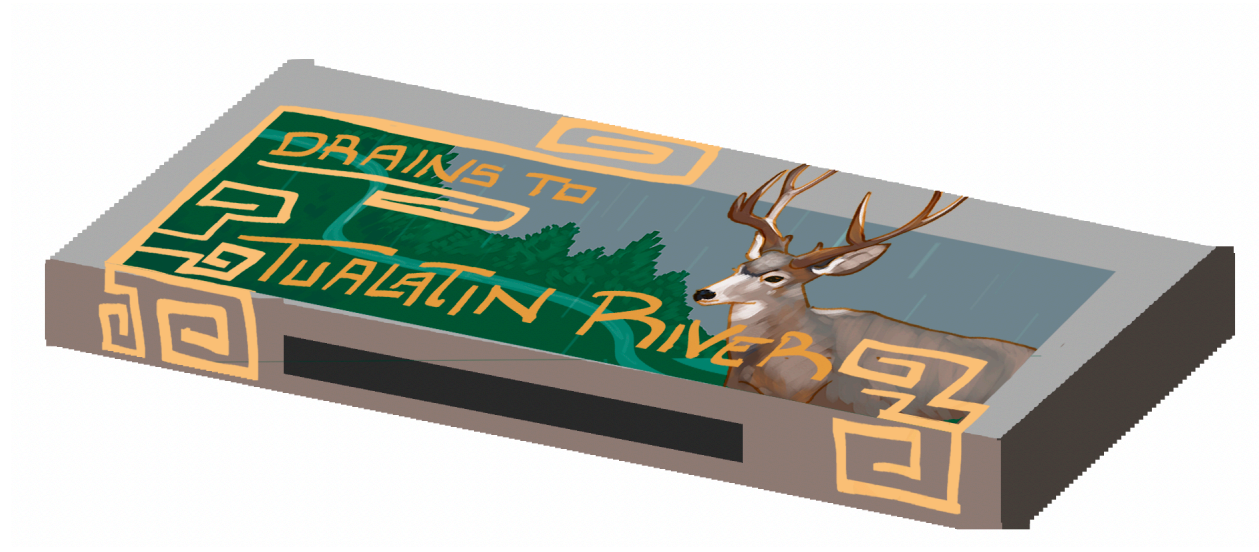

Color Palette

- Rain gold
#F3BA71
- Bark
#342821
- Ochre
#E1973E
- Umber
#543B30
- Fir green
#004D32
- Warm brown
#875635
- River green
#00623F
- Stone taupe
#88776F
- Teal
#07816E
- Sky slate
#6C8289

Installation Mockup

Proposal

This design puts a focus on the connection between figurative and abstract, portraying the reality of the landscape around us and how we impose our human world on top. The flora and fauna chosen are representative of the real Beaverton species around us: The mule deer was chosen to represent the power (and delicacy) of our natural world, which gives the viewer a character to connect and empathize with, bonding viewer and environment. The Douglas fir trees in the background are meant to frame the Oregon sky, imagery that has been integral to the Oregonian identity. These elements in tandem with the title and abstract, geometric framing are meant to make a viewer pause and consider how we occupy and interact with the land around us, and encourage us to respect our spaces and treat them with love.

Artist Statement

My name is Everett Liddle and I am a senior at Arts and Communication Magnet Academy. I am an aspiring graphic designer and concept artist; I love creating windows to other worlds and glimpses into other viewpoints. In May of 2026, I designed and led the installation of Beaverton's first street mural on Singletree drive, which ignited my love for bringing life to my community through my art, and that passion led me to this project.

Availability

I am available to install this mural in August 2026, alongside taking on the other responsibilities required for this project. I am excited to collaborate with the City of Beaverton and Tualatin Riverkeepers to smoothly execute the installation.